The picture on the left is of 4G towers, which you'll notice, wherever you see them, that they are placed in places and on poles that are way out of your way, as these are very dangerous to be in close proximity to. The new 5G towers (exampled above, center and right) will be much smaller, easier to hide or miss, and will be moving down close to your level. These will be placed every 2-10 houses, on top of electric poles, and on street level locations. These cell towers (if you'll be able to even see them) tend to look like speakers; but the boxes can also be in the shape of a cylinder or small square. The picture in the center is of some in downtown Sioux Falls. Note how small these are, as well as the fact that they are just over your head, no longer towering far above it. The picture on the right are of some 5G towers in California.

Hello my new friends. My name is Christopher, the Living Man; and you're about to hate that I've invaded your cozy just fine lives, very soon, I expect...but then, no one likes the truth, do they? Especially the way I like to tell it.

Before I begin, I'd like to start by telling you that I'm not on drugs, I'm not mental or diagnosed to be mentally ill under any pretense. I also am not uneducated (I attended 12 semesters of college, as most Americans did, with passing scores), nor am I stupid (I sport a respectable 145 I.Q.). Let me also be clear, I don't want your money, and I'm not trying to sell you anything.

What then, is my purpose in telling you what I'm about to tell you? Because I am, in fact, a living breathing human being with a conscience and morals (unlike a lot of people these days; surely, you've noticed), made in the image of someone greater than myself; someone who taught me what I needed to be and what I needed to know about existing in this life; and showed me how one loves their neighbors. You become concerned enough and care about their welfare enough to inform them of things they should know but aren't being told.

There. Now that we have all that cleared up, let's get to it. Be warned, it is my full intent to scare the hell out of you; not only because you NEED to be afraid of this, but also because there's no better way to wake up the general public (most of whom are either blissfully ignorant of the issues that plague us, too busy working 2-4 jobs in addition to living their already too busy lives, or are fast asleep by choice), than to give 'em a swift kick to the shins.

There is, already in your city, installed and awaiting the throw of the worldwide commercial 'on' switch; in what could be as early as a year or, at the most, the newest generation (5G, or 5th Generation wireless) of a technology we Americans use daily, are expected to be dependent on even more in the future, and would be hard-pressed to give up, if asked – Our cell phones and wi-fi. The danger is that cell phones use wi-fi, as do most internet routers nowadays. At its current level (4G), it is ALREADY suspected to be very dangerous; to our health; and to our children's health, as well as having an effect on their growth and development, both physically AND mentally, as far back as their beginnings as a fetus and throughout the entirety of their growth into adults.

The newest generation of this technology, however, is exponentially far more dangerous to humans (and to all other life as well) than its older generations ever dreamed of being; and they pale in comparison to it...even collectively. This newest generation will greatly threaten, not only your lives, but ALL life on our planet...including animals, birds, insects (this, by the way, is what is REALLY happening to the bee population), plants and trees. Worse yet, it has ALREADY been affecting your children and your children's children and their possible futures, even considering only the current generation. This is unbeknownst to you as yet (and will not be visibly noticed by anyone until a generation or two down the line); but will endanger them as much as 10 times with the newest version. MIDCO and Century Link have already installed their equipment somewhat in Sioux Falls, and it is, as yet, just a light scatter of new equipment here and there; but will soon be doubled and tripled in number once 5G goes live (or is about to), commercially (I imagine that it's done this way so that it doesn't immediately alarm the population.)

Thank God the 5G equipment is not yet active, mostly; but you can best believe that when it is, you'll know it.

5G will be sold to you and will be gobbled up by the public using its only possible benefit – faster data transferring with no lag. Funny thing is, you, the consumer, won't even notice a real difference. This is because this new generation wasn't made with you and your "internet speeds while browsing" in mind. It was created and implemented because of its benefit to "THINGS", (machines and computers); and allows them to connect and communicate with each other, and, allegedly, with US, better. They may also tell you that, because of the massive amounts of data users are demanding these days, that more spectrum was needed to accommodate their needs, hence the 5G upgrade. This is another line of crap being fed the eager public. There is nothing wrong with the current speeds, and there is no danger of overloading the current range of spectrum at present.

Strangely, this is not only going in here, in the U.S. (although we are the designated guinea pigs), but WORLD WIDE, (and in places that no one has cell phones or people even; another strange thing); in a God awful hurry, and with something their preceding versions didn't have, something it's hard to imagine it would have to have...an actual act of congress pertaining specifically to this new generation, and insists it be installed and implemented in every nook and cranny of our country and others. This was quietly introduced to us in 2016, by the then chairman of the FCC (go to You tube, and search for "Tom Wheeler 5G speech") as something that will roll out without waiting for the standards to be in place, without those meddling regulators and those pesky studies, and in the face of any and all opposition, by no later (and sooner, if possible) by 2020.

I'm sorry; but there's something very wrong with a cell phone technology needing an act of congress to ensure that it's installed and implemented, don't you think? Just this fact alone, let alone the hurry everyone appears to be in to get it put in everywhere against all opposition is disturbing enough to me, all by itself. I'm afraid, however, that there is a lot more that will disturb you before I'm done with you.

Let's just start with what they've dubbed this future generation of wireless phone technology - "The 5G BEAST system?" What a very creepy thing to call it. That one kind of gave me the chills, all by itself.

How about the fact that there are 11...yes, that's 11 MAJOR health concerns that have already been raised and tested for (and obviously, managed to fail these tests miserably) using 5G's new touted spectrum frequencies and their new compatible phones. These same frequencies will be used both in your homes on your computers and laptops, and of course, in your constant everyday use of cell phones. These tests were performed by independent specialists and scientists in this field; on rats and rabbits. The results were devastating, as well as mind-numbing. Look forward first to skin disease, like you've never experienced it before (they say your skin as a whole will be in pain, not just a part of it.) Because your skin is made up of thousands of sweat ducts, they react to waves like this like little antennas, and in this reaction, assist in driving these waves deeper into your body – at the sub-thermal and sub-epidermal levels, causing your body to be more conductive to them; which will cause cancer in a host of new and unique places. The same frequencies caused lens opacity (the immediate predecessor to cataracts) in rabbits after only EIGHT HOURS of continuous exposure. They cause DNA single and double strand breaks. Brain barrier leakage (that barrier which is our last defense against a host of brain diseases). You won't feel this, of course, because you have no pain receptors in your brain. Insomnia. A ton of neurological disorders. Deprivation of your cells' ability to fight disease. It can cause dangerous bacteria (i.e., e-coli) to mutate, grow and spread through your body, and more.

Just to give you a small idea of how dangerous this new tech is, your current phones use around ½ to 2W of power. 5G phones will use around 20W. This isn't what scares me, even though it should. I can only imagine what this kind of irradiated power will do to your hands and your eyes after regular use. There is, by the way, a shield in these phones – on one side. This is in every cell phone, and it isn't there to protect you; it's there to protect your screen, because it gets interference from EMF's and doesn't work right. This essentially means the new phone makers aren't doing this to protect you at all and have absolutely no care about YOUR exposure. How do they do this and not be liable? Oh, that's easy. There are little terms and conditions that come with your phone, (in the 'About Phone' section, under 'Legal') that you never read, then agree and consent that you read and understood them. I suggest you get to finding and reading them.

As to the new 5G towers, they will come with the ability to fire irradiated beams around you and through you that now be backed by as much as 30,000 watts of directed, aimed, amplified power. No, that's not a misprint. Thirty. Thousand. Watts. They say some arrays may also be able to collectively gather as much as 900,000W of firing power; if the telecom they sold enough of these new bandwidths to chooses to use it.

Here's a doozie for you. The new internet frequency is going to be 60 GHz in speed. 60 GHz, by the by, just happens to be the PRECISE frequency that causes your body's water cells to do a jig; and in the process, causes them to stop binding to oxygen. What an astounding coincidence! Almost so astounding a coincidence that it almost seems to NOT be a coincidence. It was upon reading this very disturbing fact that I immediately threw away all my cell phones, rewired my internet, and put in a land line. There is more bad news, however. Doing this will not be enough, nor will it do anyone a damn bit of good.

See, with the current gen of wireless, this radiation is limited in your distance to it. You can move closer to it and away from it, just by leaving a building, or walking a block down the street from a cell tower, say.

With 5G, even if you rid yourself of all wireless and Bluetooth capable devices; and yes, even if you're living in the stone age, technologically, this will not save you from any of the afore-mentioned dangers.

Why? Because this new technology is very different than its preceding generations. This technology uses PULSED MICROWAVES (which are MASSIVELY more dangerous than non-pulsed microwaves). Oh, they'll try to use other terms, such as EMF's, or millimeter waves, to confuse you...but make no mistake, these are microwaves, plain and simple. And, using these new frequencies, the waves are shorter and less penetrating.

Because these MICROWAVES (that are infinitely more powerful than the waves that the door of your microwave barely, if at all, protects you from, waves that will now be zooming by and through us, unfettered, as soon as we walk outside, millions of times a day) do not travel far or pass through physical objects well (especially things like water and trees; meaning that, when it rains it will more than likely irradiate the soil; and as for trees, it causes peroxidase-yellowing and browning and kills leaves already. This will most certainly kill the trees themselves), when they're sent, they tend to bounce around trying to get where they've been directed with no success. Because of this, towers will be installed close together, and by the hundreds...nay, by the thousands even; every 200 feet or so; or, they've also said, every 2-12 houses; and will be installed, on light poles and street-level locations just in front of, YOUR home (should you be lucky numbers 2 or 12.); instead of on very tall towers way over your head. I say, at this point, you might as well install one right in your living room. Better yet, why not just stick your heads in the microwave, and push the "ON" button. It will probably be a much faster and therefore, a more humane way to go, as well as a much kinder fate.

A host of terrifying steps will now be taken to ensure that these waves DO reach their targets – which of course are you, your phone (wherever it may be at the time,) and those very nearly street level-towers. The only way to guarantee these short microwaves get to their intended targets is to aim and amplify them. This of course means that they will also be aimed and amplified and beamed right through anything that might be in this beams way; indiscriminately. This will, in theory, cause a slow-cooking of all American citizens from the inside out. To accomplish this, they will use an overly powerful electrical power source that will somehow manage to contain this wave, form it, then send it on its way. They call this 'Beam-forming.'" When you make a phone call, tiny groups of small antennas in your phone (in your phone and out of them, they're called 'Phased Arrays") work together to find receiving towers, then directs a 20W phased and powerful beam of information (and pulsed radiation) from your phone out to them. If you're the only person in the area when you make your call, the towers in the area will be tracking you, as well as sending out their signals to better understand where you and your phone are (and, this essentially means, that when you're being 'tracked' it's sending beams out in search of your phone and affecting you in that way too). Upon their receipt of your signal (your call out) they will then aim and amplify your signal; "beaming" it out to your intended receiver, via a series of what will now be HUNDREDS of towers, en route (and, everything that's in the way of this signal gets to share in the danger of this process). When a connection is established, the towers will return your sent beam right back at you, via the same hundred towers. Thanks to technological breakthroughs, these towers will and can be as small 3 mm x 3 mm (such as the ones that will be in your phone). This means that you may not ever see what's causing you pain, headaches, or nausea, or is making you very sick (symptoms, when we get them, resemble the flu; and since the medical field scoffs at EMF sensitivity, they will either have no clue what's wrong with you, will misdiagnose the problem or tell you it's all in your head), nor will you know when someone installs an antenna on or by your house, right next to your bedroom.

In case I didn't quite paint the picture clear enough, this means that, whether you have a cell phone or a computer or not, makes absolutely no difference. Let's say, you're in a crowd of people, and one person gets a phone call. That receiving beam of radiation will go through 20 people to get to him, at least. If your home is next to someone that has internet or a cell phone that's wireless, you will still be in the path of these powerful irradiated phone and internet traffic beams, more than likely no less than the person receiving them. Here's one for you...if it's late at night, and only one person on your block has their wi-fi running; their speeds will be blisteringly fast...but all of the rays from surrounding towers that will all be tracking his signal will be firing massively dangerous rays only at him/her (or you, should you be that person); and one or more of those could, feasibly run right through you or your home.

Wi-fi, if you didn't know it, back in its past generations, as well as in its far more dangerous present and upcoming form, is suspected to be, more than likely, causing you AND your children to be unable to, both, produce or bear their own children; let alone healthy and fully developed children. Still births are caused by exposure to these kinds of waves on a regular basis; and, at the very least, are able to cause a host of maladies and deformities in fetuses. They are also causing your DNA to break apart, which could also mean a lot of horrible possibilities for your grandchildren just a couple of generations down the road...should they be born successfully, or...at all. Here's a little fact I'm sure you're not aware of. The birth rate in this country dropped 600,000 in just one year, plummeting down from its rise of the same birth rate just a year before (This was our national birth rate in 2015 that dropped. Strangely, I've not been able to locate more current figures.)

Regardless of all I have told you, your representatives in Washington have all but worshipped the coming of this dangerous technology, and either don't care what it does to you (No Regulations! No Standards! No Studies...we don't care, remember??), or, and this I suspect, that this is more than what they're putting forth. Why would they be in such an awful rush to sneak this in before you even know what it is; or what it's capable of? You'll forgive me, but I have more than speculated the possible uses and possibilities of this latest tech, as have many others (I reference more sites and people you can check out concerning their fight with this at the end of this letter). I also have, unlike most others, simple, logical and obvious truths staring me dead in the face backing those truths up. I mean c'mon... since when do we need an act of congress or executive order to ensure that all communications be wireless, wireless that is considered by the World Health Organization to be a possible class 2 carcinogen, and dangerous, even NOW...let alone 10 times worse in a year?

Why haven't you been informed of this, should it be a fact? Why wouldn't something like this be all over the news? You have not been accurately or truthfully informed of ANYTHING that is happening; in your world, in your nation...or even your own town, by "The News" for some time now. Nor will you be anytime soon, because "the news" is no longer "The News"; and the act that protected you from Government propaganda in any form has been amended recently to allow it to be used again. Therefore, "the news" has, once again, become a programmed propaganda machine, is corporately owned by 6 national heads. You will certainly never be told about anything that may be bad for you, like this obviously is, because the powers that be don't want you to be told. If you knew about it, you'd stop it. Why would it matter if you did, you might ask? Well, for a good example, listen to the former FCC chairman's speech. Where 5G is concerned, U.S. telecom companies wouldn't make tens of billions of dollars (and what they paid him to "sell" it to us would have been for nothing). What the medical profession and big pharma would probably rake in when this is put in is also something to consider. Big pharma is already a major influencer in what cures are available to whom, are well-known for putting bad products out to see what happens to us, testing humans like guinea pigs; etc. They have no care when it comes to its medicines damaging our health further or killing us off; that should be obvious. I'm sure that they have a good business interest in 5G. I know for a fact that Bill Gates has already dumped 44 billion dollars into two of the top vaccination companies in the world of late, and (just following this, in an interview) predicted a world-wide pandemic. 5G, considering the technology and the untested frequencies it plans to use, has the real possibility to cause sickness in us, singly and in groups of 100's or thousands of people, all at once (and can also, realistically, be used to kill anyone or anything on demand, and with alarming accuracy) and his prediction date just happens to coincide with the date this tech plans to go into full swing. This is what really scares me about this tech, its ability to be used as a weapon, in every sense of the word. If you listen to Mr. Wheeler, it plans to allow sharing of the same frequencies already in use in military defense applications. If you knew even a sliver of our Government's engaged in deceptions of late, the powers that be would not, without question, BE the powers that be. By the way, Obama was the president responsible for legalizing propaganda again, in 2012 (Passed, July 2, 2013). This of course, means you can no longer trust ANY mainstream news source to tell you the truth or give you the whole story about anything.

Well, what about the companies themselves? Oh sure, give them a call...I insist. Just what do you believe the representatives of these companies are going to tell you? Would you believe for even one minute that, at the cost of the billions of dollars they're going to make off of 5G (one company has even predicted their profits into the trillions), that they're going to tell you the truth; that this product is dangerous, or that they know what this equipment is capable of? Do you think for one minute that they're going to risk all of your business, forever, and tell you that it's dangerous? I'm betting on 'No' for that answer. Another thing, if it sounds like whoever you're talking to is ignorant of anything concerning the equipment they're putting up, then they probably are, and are only going to tell you what they've been told to tell you by whoever is in charge of them.

One thing I will not do, is to give you answers to questions you may end up asking me, nor will I tell you what I believe to be the answers. I will however, show you where to find your OWN answers, and let you decide the truth for yourselves; not only because what I've presented here, I'm sure, sounds insane and unbelievable, as well as surreal; it's also probably going to be immediately easy for you to, when it looks to be too "out there" for you; just brush it aside and discount it as a 'Conspiracy Theory.'

Please, don't do that with this. Look into this, please; if not for your own sakes, do it for those you love and care about. My thought on what we like to call "conspiracy theories", is this: Conspiracy theories are just truths that haven't, as yet, been proven properly to the majority of the populace. That definition, by the way, easily puts this information OUT of that realm, since the facts concerning this technology HAVE been proven, by quite a few qualified to research these facts, the majority of whom are completely independent of this industry.

America, your children are slowly but surely being deprived of everything that resembles a future (and a lot of those are not even going to exist, thanks to this technology as it is now!) and if these criminals in government-related positions, who allowed this to go in for whatever stupid reasons they might have had (or for whatever big check they probably received to back it up in every way); are not stopped now, it will be too late in as little as a year to a year and a half; when the switch to this technology is finally flipped to its worldwide commercial "ON" position.

I've included pictures of two pieces of 5G equipment, both round in my more immediate neighborhood. This first one, I've surmised, is more of a relay station. You'll note though, the thickness of the black wire that runs up to the actual "tower" or relay tower, indicated by the weird dish looking thing with the antennae on top and on the bottom of the tower (this is not connected to wires as yet). This should tell you the kind of power that's going to be used to send these signals, quite well. This one should be common throughout Sioux Falls by now. Funny thing concerning all of these installed locations, is that none of them are really in too plain a view...almost like they're trying to hide them. I would hide them too, if I knew what I know; which I do. Please, don't be fooled by their size. These are very dangerous.

The picture below is a commonly seen 4G tower, located right next to KDLT, an ABC affiliate station in Sioux Falls. This shows a current 4G 'phased array' tower; and gives you a better idea of what will now be shrunk and either put inside of small boxes, or, even better, inside the phones you will be using. These kinds of very tall towers are not placed, usually, in populated areas (for a very good reason!!!) and are usually placed high above any possible heads. These towers, affected people in California so much that the telecoms started making them look like things in nature or construction; hiding them in bushes, cactuses, flag poles, church buildings, sculptures and art and even palm trees (as in the pictures below), and took to painting them to camouflage them to blend them in with buildings.

The set of pictures below are a fair example of a new 5G tower that sits right behind the drive-up bank at 14th and Minnesota, near the drive through for the ATM station there, on the SW corner of Minnesota. This one should affect the employees that work that drive-through every day of the work week. I wouldn't care to be any of them when this gets turned on, believe me.

5G array towers typically sport a set of phased arrays all hidden from view inside a small box (like the one in the picture on the right) or a small cylinder-shaped container, always with strange-looking antennas, on the top, on the bottom or both.) These "towers" are a lot smaller, as well as a lot more dangerous than their tall and much more obvious predecessors. The majority won't be able to be seen easily by the public, which should really scare the crap out of you. I know it does me.

The most noticeable pre-cursor of this new tech and its equipment is the shown thick black wires, with the loops on them. This is all new equipment, and these thicker black wires are going up everywhere in the Sioux Falls area. Sure, some of this equipment is standard, like the wire splicing shown in the picture on the lower right, but WHAT it's splicing is the real question. This thickness of wire hasn't been seen anywhere until now.

A CALL TO ACTION

You're now probably thinking to yourself, "I'm just one person...what could I possibly do to help stop this?" I can understand why you would think this, as most Americans share that thought on a lot of varying occasions. But I'm just one person...and you heard this from me, didn't you? I came up with different ways to get this news out to Sioux Falls; and you heard about it, so that means that one person can, and I hope, WILL help make a difference. More so, you don't HAVE to work alone, tell others about this, and start your own group. You're also welcome to contact me...I know I could use some help with getting this news to others! There are other more drastic things you could do as well. You could throw out your cell phones (or COULD you?) You can rewire your internet and get a land-line again. It may not do much good if others are keeping their technology; but it can make a difference, especially if you tell others and it causes them to do the same thing...per your shining example.

Should you need a little help with the idea that your officials in office don't want to listen to the public about this: I once presented the information I had gathered up to your City Council members a while back...and feeling the quite obvious guilt that one member must have felt (I believe they paid off your city councils concerning this a long time ago, probably back in 2016), one member quickly (a little too quickly, I might add...within the hour) replied back to me. As I expected they would, in that reply, he/she quickly and expertly passed their respective buck on to those new members of the council that would be replacing them later on in the election year.

Know that I also presented this to a Gubernatorial candidate here in South Dakota. 15 minutes later, he emailed me back and said only this, and I quote: "Oh my God...we're all gonna die." Those words, and only those words were said; and even after one or two more attempts by me at contacting him, I've heard nothing else from him since...no kidding. The other candidate, Kristi Noem; who was elected to be the choice to run for Governor for the Republic party; was also faxed this information at every office she has in our state. I've not had a response to date; either thanking me or calling me a nutjob. I'd say that's a slight reason to worry.

Folks, a danger that's worse than anything else I have presented, thus far, is this: This new technology is sure to cause the imminent, absolute and total decimation of what's left of the ozone layer. In preface of just how it will cause this, scientific reports from varying people around the globe; done just this year, have stated that the danger of our ozone layer being destroyed (this matter gained international attention just a couple decades ago; and, during a world conference, a pact was formed that included nations promising to do all they could to at least slow this destruction of the ozone down; or, hopefully, stop it altogether) hasn't just continued; but has, in fact, accelerated as well.

Promised rocket launches of 2,000-12,000 satellites PER TELCOM COMPANY will be occurring before and AFTER 5g's final commercial implementation. These satellites only last a short time, so re-launches will happen a lot - almost daily. These launches will, by and through their carbon waste, chlorine and other greenhouse gas emissions will, without question, destroy whatever is left of the ozone. That, in combination with the continuous radiating and subsequent death of all plant life means no life-giving oxygen will be available; not to mention that the ozone serves as a protective layer between us and the radiation given off by the sun. Without it, we and the planet we live on would (and is sure to) burn up faster than a cotton ball. I give us 5 years, tops; based on ONLY this promise. Which danger is more immediate, dying quickly of cancer or some other disease; starvation due to famine caused by increased or unbearable heat and lack of food; suffocation from the lack of oxygen...who can say? Yet, ANY of these, coupled with the alarming decrease in the national birth rate can only point to the eventual and inevitable extinction of humans.

One thing I hear a lot from people that I tell this information to (and this is said in a lot of nation-wide city council meetings by a lot of very well paid off council heads/members) is "This is federally mandated, there's nothing we can do!" My response to that is, usually, "OK, so, if there was a federal mandate in place that ordered all Americans to kill one of their neighbors every day, would you still just shrug your shoulders and say "I'm sorry, there's nothing we can do?" Do not fall into the trap of thinking, because this is federally mandated, there's no way this can be stopped. There is a point where the insanity of those in power HAS to be stopped, where the people must draw a line in the sand, and act to oppose their agenda. This, my friends of South Dakota, is one of those occasions.

Another common response I get these days is "OK...this is life-threatening, obviously; but what affects us affects those responsible for allowing this to be put in too, right? So how can this be for real?" I'm going to provide you a couple of links to show you viable options available to those who consider themselves above the law and who probably have enough cash to live 10 lifetimes, to avoid such a worldwide calamity - in complete safety, and in full comfort, for years. In this scenario, unless you have a couple million dollars saved back, you can pretty much count on not being included.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=BrmqWZyoido> (go EXACTLY 24 minutes in to see this. This is a pretty alarming video that I myself have seen, but I don't suggest you watch it all; especially those of you just waking up to the real truth of things - unless you like your "red pills" huge and unbelievably hard to swallow.)

Another option presents in this documentary about another area of the earth, unseen by the majority of us; that they may be opting to escape to until this is over...again, I'm not giving you the answers, just showing you all I have and letting you decide.

I'll conclude by saying that there has been a lot of evil, criminal and nearly criminal things that have been done in the name of progress, business, profit and Government in the last century (as well as in centuries past). None, however, even shine a weak light compared to the possibilities that would be viable with this technology. The same, handed to and run by our Government, no one could even guess the possibilities; but they can be easily speculated, using what I've given you here. Who even knows anything at all about this new technology, or even knows it exists? To prioritize this threat, I ask you to re-consider just these key points:

1. An act of congress (federal law,) in place that ensures the placement of wireless technology literally everywhere, in every corner of our nation, and in others as well; and to ensure its installation REGARDLESS of any and all opposition.
2. Sneaking this in, even before you've even heard of it, and in a huge hurry.
3. A WORLDWIDE rollout, all by 2020.
4. NO studies, NO regulation, NO standards in place, nor are any expected any time soon.
5. Utilizing an awful lot of UNTESTED frequencies, some that are also currently being used in Military Defense applications.
6. Using real live MICROWAVES, CHARGED and PULSED, far more dangerous than non-pulsed.

Below, I reference just one of the possibilities of this new tech, called social crediting. This was introduced immediately following the installation of the 5G network in China. It's being used to monitor and control every citizen's activities and behaviors; and punish them for those actions and behaviors, with impunity. Should you do or say something the Government doesn't like, there goes your right to travel, or other related privileges...or your right to live, quite possibly; should they decide to take this far enough. Oh sure, they're a communist country; but are we really that different than them; or, with such a technology in place, couldn't we possibly be the next to go this direction? I put out there that this tech and its possible uses could easily corrupt those in Governance of a formerly free country and take complete control of their population at the flip of a switch.

5G's lightning-fast connectivity allows for instant and on the spot information exchanges, but this is not so much for the consideration of exchanges with other people, but for machines and their communications with other machines. The "Internet of things" they're talking about with 5G ("Iot" this is called) means that wireless-capable chips will go into literally everything. They will be the size of dust and will not be noticed by the human eye easily. Every single chip in every single thing will operate on this dangerous new wireless (meaning everything you bring home from any store will now be blanketing your house in wireless radiation every minute of every day), and will report your habits concerning EVERYTHING you buy, everything you do, everything you engage in, every minute of the day. This new wireless blanketing of chips and wireless will be labeled “The Smart Grid”. I have chosen to label it our new “prison grid”, where everything you do as well as everywhere you go can and will, more than likely, be monitored, tracked, and recorded. For what possible use is all this personal data to those collecting it? Others have wondered. I’ve stopped wondering, myself.

Read up on this new tech, watch something about it; whatever you have to do; but do something now, or this will ensure the elimination of all life, everywhere. Quit fighting against one another over causes that we’ve disagreed on since the dawn of our existence and start paying attention to what’s happening in our country. If nothing else, pay attention to what they’re teaching your kids in our schools...as well as what they no longer teach them. More so, stop listening to or believing “the news”, because it is now Government-sponsored and Government-fed news...not yours.

Look to our congressional record, my American friends. Agenda 21 and Agenda 2030, when taken into proper context (you have to reinterpret an awful lot of lofty words and pretentious statements to do this); seem to present people and agendas that care a lot less about the Earth and the population that lives on it, than at first glance. How much longer should we allow a group of the richest and most powerful people on the planet to make decisions for us, such as whether we should exist or not; or how many of us there can or should be, when addressing the world’s population?

One last kick in the shins...folks, I’ve heard it all, but the one thing I hear that probably makes me the angriest is the opinion that, when you were young, your grandfather said that you will have to deal with your own problems in your life; just like your kids will have to deal with theirs when it’s their time; or that, your fight for a good life is over, and now it’s time for your children to fight for their good life. This is absolute hogwash and horse-hockey. Just because you chose to roll over on what people have done and are doing to you, or that you’re OK with your being forced to live your own life of slave labor, lifelong debt and taxes, doesn’t mean that you should give up the fight so that your children won’t have to live the same life; and that because you did give up, promises to be even worse for them in their time; or force them to deal with problems in our world and situations that we adults essentially consented to and allowed to happen; problems that will become steadily worse for them as time goes on. Then, because you chose to be complacent and inactive concerning these issues, your children then learn to eventually “roll over” on their respective issues, in kind, from YOU; and, worse yet, their children will suffer even worse fates because of that, and so on.

It is not, nor will it EVER be right, in my mind, to allow or force MY children to deal with the consequences of something I allowed to happen, or that I could have stopped or at least TRIED to stop, that would have resulted in a better life for them. Think about THAT the next time you attempt to say something resulting from this way of thinking. Do something about this for THEM, and do it now, or their problems and their suffering will be exponentially greater, because you did nothing or quit fighting for your own “good life;” therein, essentially, also quit fighting for a good life for them.

But you don’t have to listen to me. Listen to others. The citizens of the E.U. are already attempting to get 5G banned there. There is an entire organization already in place combatting this all over the world (GUARDS.) Help me spread this to others. We, the citizens of Sioux Falls and South Dakota, need to lasso up our newly elected and respective city councils and Government officials to see what they’re response is to this. IF they won’t take action, then we THE PEOPLE must take action. We must - because our lives, and the lives of our children and their futures are very much at stake.

Key phrases you can research to find your own answers:

Phased Arrays. IoT (The Internet of things.) Social Crediting (China.) Military Bandwidths (frequencies used for military defense applications). The Secure FRN (First Responder's Network). Tom Wheeler's 2016 speech (unedited.) 5G's intensive, massively expensive Infrastructure overhaul (all old towers will be removed and will be replaced with new ones.)

Health Dangers (11 major, others are likely, including a much sooner, yet torturously longer death); including many neurological disorders, thermal and sub-thermal effects, cancer, memory loss, insomnia, physical pain, blindness, etc. The new 60 Ghz Internet frequency. Apple 666 (children in schools, Sterilization, how wi-fi affects them, and affects their development). Chemtrails, nanotech; and the ingredients of both. The 2.4 Ghz frequency (the standard cordless phone freq.) Wi-fi and its ability in causing peroxidase in plant life and trees. The attempt, and pretty much failing of trying to install a smart meter in every home (That one lost a lot of momentum, thanks to the people...but Cell phones...what are the chances that people will give up THOSE?) Wi-fi – the TRUE reason behind the nearly total decimation of the honey bee population.

Possible consequences of this new technology:

Nature will be completely unbalanced, thousands of species will go extinct, maybe even us.

The effects of irradiated water on organic food growing and production (Solo or monopolistic food sources, which may not even issue real or nutritious foods; may become world or Government controlled and issued.)

Probably one of the biggest consequences the 5G network could have on the general populace (after sickness and death, that is) is the loss of hundreds of thousands of jobs to AI (Artificial Intelligence) in all realms of society. There are already semis on the road, for example, with no drivers, that have been delivering products for a few years now. Drive down your streets of business, and just think about the businesses that wouldn't be there anymore; just based on the replacement of humans with driver-less vehicles, in just the transportation industries alone. Now imagine that machines run everything; a 'benefit' of this tech, touted by the industry. How many of us do you imagine will be able to train to be programmers of these new super-machines? What is the majority of working America going to do with all their unemployed time, if machines do everything they used to? Jobs in secretarial, janitorial, customer service and more are already being dominated by recordings, online help bots and their algorithms, and more of these types of services have been promised us with the implementation of 5G. I have to wonder what white and blue-collar America is going to do in this new society? Sit at home, play video games on their phones, drink beer and eat Doritos? How will we pay for our food, or pay for our homes or rent? Are we just going to let everyone live for free? Or maybe we'll be expected to be dependent on those who forced this tech on us, those of Government, to feed and clothe us, or provide us with homes. Surely, you see how well that's working out now. In China, it's against the law to be homeless. In the social crediting scenario, you can be denied the right to rent or buy homes, if you aren't a 'model citizen.' Then, if you become homeless, you can be arrested and put in jail for it. What do you believe the next step might be after that? Government-sponsored reprogramming? Government sponsored assisted suicide and disposal of those not willing to conform and comply?

Possible and plausible future uses of this system may EASILY include, but not be limited to:

A world-wide surveillance and control Prison Grid (The "smart-grid", in conjunction with "IoT" and AI)

The ability to target anyone in real time, with accuracy, even as far away as outer space. This technology, using X-rays (Microwaves) gives them the ability to see whatever they want, whenever they want, through anything that presents (i.e., walls, etc.) at great risk to your overall health and well-being any time they wish to "target" you, in order to identify you as a possible threat and "Surveil" you.

Rise of AI in positions of "Government" or authority figures. This will and DOES include air flight drones that are so advanced, they use visual cloaking (meaning they cannot be seen as being present AT ALL.) Some of these have been said to be programmed to make independent decisions to kill people that it perceives as a threat, against ENACTED LAW that was (allegedly) put in place by congress, assuring us that a human will always be included in such a decision; as it applies to un-manned machines.

The Absolute depopulation of human-kind, world-wide. "Sophia" (an AI, that was made a "Citizen" of humanity; symbolic, it's been said, of the eventuality of AI integration, into our bodies; and into all areas of "commerce".) Transhumanism – the term for this AI integration into our bodies.

Mind Control, all levels; at lightning speed and directed. (just a simple low level 10 GHz freq. wave, for instance, aimed at you, can make you go slack-jawed in a matter of seconds.) This one may be a little hard to swallow for some; but they've had weapons that could (and have been used to) put entire towns to sleep for some decades already or rile them up to incite violent behavior.
